Gun Tests Recommends: conditional buy

The Remington 105Cti design is still a fledgling, but is destined to be an American classic autoloader. Once some minor function issues are worked out, this becomes a Buy It recommendation.

Above: The bolt handle on the Remington 105Cti is alone on the right sidewall of the receiver; there is no ejection port since the gun is a bottom-ejection model.

Far left: The Remington 105Cti's gaudy commemorative grip cap probably adds to its rack appeal.
