

REMINGTON 11-87 POLICE 12-GAUGE
3-INCH NO. 9861, $850

Gun Tests grade: A

This gun had nearly everything our entry team wanted: soft, reliable recoil, good control of the grip, capacity, surgical precision for shooting slugs. For police or home defense, this is a great option, especially when low-recoil ammo is used.

The polypropylene stock and fore-end have a matte-black finish that won't reflect light, and the stock has molded checkering. The pistol grip stock was a huge aid in doing quick reloads.

Here's the business end of the 11-87, showing the dovetailed front sight (top arrow), the thick barrel walls, the barrel bracket and the accompanying rotating sling swivel stud. This front end could take a lot of punishment, we'd wager.
