

GUN TESTS REPORT CARD

Browning Silver Mossy Oak Duck
Blind No. 011366604
3-inch 20 Gauge, $1,064
GUN TESTS GRADE: B

Gads, more than a thousand MSRP for a duck-blind gun? No thanks, our testers said—we're a lot harder on our stuff than that. Still, this was a smoothly functioning gun that had only minor issues that many readers will wave off as differences of opinion.

Mossberg SA-20 No. 75771
3-Inch 20 Gauge, $496
GUN TESTS GRADE: B-/A

If the bolt release and loading-gate release button is a problem you don't want to deal with—as it was for us—then take the lower grade. If you're used to that sequence and can adapt, then this is an awful lot of gun for the money.

Remington 11-87 Sportsman
No. 29825 3-Inch 20 Gauge, $757
GUN TESTS GRADE: A-

In many ways, the 11-87 succeeded by not being really bad at anything. It wasn't the lightest gun, but it wasn't heavy either. Its trigger wasn't outstanding, but it wasn't bad. It wasn't the easiest to operate, but everything worked as we expected. It wasn't the most expensive, nor was it the least expensive. Thus, there can be a good argument made that the Sportsman is a B+ gun, and if the gentle reader wishes to downgrade the 11-87 on his own scorecard, then we wouldn't be put-off by that. But if we were spending our money, we'd buy the Remington ahead of the others.

Written and photographed by Gun Tests staff, using evaluations from GUN TESTS team testers. GT