The Wilson Combat magazine extension tube includes a new spring and a chartreuse high-visibility follower, above, which replaces the orange cap in the standard extension tube. Top right is the Wilson component and below that, the stock 870 extension tube and spring. The Wilson extension is machined steel and has a sling loop that the factory part lacks. Paired with the SpecOps stock, this is a well-thought-out kit. It would convert a standard wood-stocked 5-shooter into a great self-defense gun.
