

CENTURY ARMS C15 SPORTER 223 REM., $795

Gun Tests grade: C

Most American shooters will like the feel of this gun more than the AK's layout and better than the Ruger's vintage design, in our opinion. In fact, based on this gun's familiarity and accuracy, we thought it would run away with the test. But the stoppage we encountered soured us on the Sporter's appeal.

SPECIFICATIONS

OVERALL LENGTH	39.5 IN.	MAGAZINE TYPE	DETACHABLE, 20-SHOT POLYMER
BARREL	20 IN., 21 IN. W/FLASH HIDER	MAXIMUM WIDTH	2.4 IN.
SIGHT RADIUS.....	20.0 IN.	GRIP THICKNESS (MAX)	1.2 IN.
FRONT SIGHT	ADJUSTABLE, PROTECTED POST	ACTION TYPE	SEMI-AUTOMATIC
REAR SIGHT	ADJUSTABLE, 2 FLIP-UP APERTURES	ACTION.....	MATTE BLACK PARKERIZED ALLOY
OVERALL HEIGHT	9.0 IN.	BARREL	MATTE BLACK PARKERIZED STEEL
LENGTH OF PULL	13.5 IN.	STOCK	BLACK POLYMER
DROP @ COMB	0 IN.	TRIGGER PULL	5.9 LBS.
DROP @ HEEL.....	0 IN.	WARRANTY	NONE
WEIGHT UNLOADED.....	8.0 LBS.	TELEPHONE	(561) 265-4530
CAPACITY.....	30/20/10+1	WEBSITE OR EMAIL.....	WWW.CENTURYARMS.BIZ

We were disappointed when the good-shooting, easy-to-handle Century gun had a malfunction so bad we couldn't clear it by hand. It took running a cleaning rod down into the action to break loose the casing stuck in the receiver.

When we opened the action to clear the malfunction, we found that the bolt was unfinished. Once we got the gun running again, we didn't have any other problems, but we confess that we lost faith in it the Century Arms gun.

