

GLOCK 30SF 45 ACP, $687

Gun Tests grade: A-

The G30SF is one of the easiest-to-shoot 45-caliber pistols we've found, and considering the presence of night sights and accessory rail, one of the cheapest, too.

Glock night sights were an inexpensive upgrade well worth the extra money. Total suggested retail price over the base model was about $50, including the extended slide release.

The primary difference between the G30 and G30SF pistols was the short frame that settled deeper into the shooter's palm, making it easier to maintain a solid grip on the pistol. This also helped the shooter isolate and better control the trigger finger.
