

CIMARRON EVIL ROY NO. ER4104 357 MAGNUM, $770

GUN TESTS GRADE: A

The Evil Roy is Cimarron's competition version of the Model P single action. The case-hardened finish and the checkered walnut grips give the Evil Roy a true Cowboy Action look and feel. The lightened 2-pound trigger is one of the best we've ever tested, regardless of gun type.

Two niceties we appreciated on the Evil Roy were (above) no hammer bite, and (below) an ejector rod tab that rotated down and away from a hot barrel.

Above, arrow: The Cimarron was the only revolver tested with a firing pin on the hammer. This holds true to the original Colt design. Right, arrow: The pin slips through the frame to hit the primer.
